Company Theatre needs people who have time at their disposal, who may be retired or not in full-time employment and who would like to be associated with a theatre group. We would especially like to hear from people who have skills in carpentry, needlework, creative writing, graphic arts or who will simply make the tea or undertake any of the other supportive roles so necessary for a successful production.

If you'd like to know more about Company Theatre and how you could be involved, please call Ros Clews on 458-928.

Music hall the spice of life

Music Hall must be in vogue on the North Shore right now: the Torbay Dramatic Society's show opens this Saturday while Company Theatre's Music Hall 89 closes in Belmont the same day.

There's still time to see the show and have a light-hearted evening out. John Palmer, who made his lead role debut with Company Theatre last July in Whose Life Is It Anyway?, appears again this time as one of the singing and dancing cast.

The show is directed by Peter Pegrove, who brings considerable experience to the position, and the role of chairman is taken by Geoff Clews, who promises some sharp repartee.

Cast members took to the streets of Devonport and Takapuna recently to publicise the show and provide entertainment.

"Once they got over initial self-consciousness, the group doing the singing admitted it hadn't been too bad and was pleased with the reaction of passers-by."

Music Hall 89 has already had a season from November 15 to 19 and opens again tomorrow night to run until Saturday. For bookings telephone 456-939.

Music Hall comes to the streets of the Shore as cast members from Company Theatre's Music Hall 89 perform to publicise their show.
